(54) Title: EVENT-DRIVEN FINANCIAL TRADING METHOD AND SYSTEM

FIG. 5

(57) Abstract: A method and system for creating event-driven financial transactions, which may include a data parser configured to receive large amounts of data from one or more sources pertaining to various indicators, a graphical user interface for receiving inputs from a user to build a transaction factoring in the value or change in value of a selected indicator, and a strategy engine for evaluating the transaction to determine whether to attempt to fill the order or take no action.
